Foundation Week

26 January 2015
Monday

In celebration of Mapúa Institute of Technology's 90th Foundation Week, with the theme, eXCelsior: 90 Years of eXCeLLence, eXCeedance, and eXCeptionalism, the EECE Student council participated in the traditional Parade of Excellence. For this parade, the council produced a float that best represents the school – a cardinal, representing the official mascot of MIT, half of which is robotic, showcasing the field in which the school is made for, technology and innovation. At the back is a huge 3D cut-out of the letters, EECE, with each letter embedded with the things the relate to each of the three programs – transformers and coils for Electrical Engineering, breadboards and capacitors for Electronics Engineering, binary for Computer Engineering, and for the last letter, a gradient of red and gold to represent the official colors of MIT.

EECE STUDENT COUNCIL

2014 – 2015

To support the institute's upcoming PACUCOA accreditation for some programs, the EECE Student Council helped in organizing necessary arrangements. First, the council helped in organizing the contents of the binders needed for the accreditation. This, alone, took weeks to finish and a number of helping hands were needed for sorting, photocopying, double-checking, printing, taking pictures, getting necessary documents from various departments, etc. Before the accreditation proper, the council also gathered students for orientation and to participate in a student dialogue which the council also participated in. This required knowledge about the mission and vision of the institute, syllabus, and current issues around the institute. The council also had to redesign the school's bulletin board, took down the old one and rearrange its contents. The council bought art materials, improvised, thought of a concept, made letterings, printed relevant stuff to fill up the spaces, etc.

Aside from the preparation, the council was also present during the actual accreditation proper, already on stand by at around 6:00 A.M. at the institute, waiting for accreditors to arrive. The council was ready to assist accreditors, greeting them, taking their bags, making small talks, and guiding them to the accreditation room. The council took shifts in giving the accreditors a tour around the institute.
